Notes.—The heads of institutions concerned should clearly explain to the candidates eligible for compartmental examination that if they wished to appear at the next ensuing examination as school or college candidates, they should produce a certificate of attendance and should fulfil the conditions regarding percentage of attendance, etc. If, on the other hand, they wished to appear as private candidates, they should apply on a prescribed form for ordinary examination by October 1, 1931.

OFFICE OF DIRECTOR OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION,

UNITED PROVINCES.

No T.B./599/XVIII—152/1931-32.

*Dated Allahabad, July 31, 1931.NOTICE.

THE following instructions for the preparation of Literary Readers for Vernacular Middle Schools for boys are issued for general information :—

GENERAL.

The ages of students of Vernacular Middle Schools range between the mental ages of 12 and 16 years. At this stage their interests lie in adventure and romance, heroism and daring, the wonder and excitement of travel and exploration. This is, therefore, the time for enlarging their world of men and things, for broadening their sympathies, and for giving them a many-sided interest in all sorts and conditions of men and women. Selections from prose literature should be made to serve these ends.

Their interest in nature, man, society, and the development of civilization is growing actively. It can be used for directing the emotions, cultivating the power of reasoning and discrimination and creating a healthy taste in literature. Impassioned poems also make a strong appeal at this age. They can be used to create large and lofty, exalted sense of enthusiasm and enthusiasm, the higher forms of emotion like courage, loyalty, obedience and reverence. Selections from good authors, both old and modern, should be made with this object in view.

Prose on abstract subjects should be avoided, especially in class V. The literary writers and poets to which the students are introduced must be few but well represented. The names of original works from which extracts are made, the sources from which they are derived, and the genres and occasions of their production should be made known to boys to encourage them to do their duty in order to satisfy a desire to read the originals and to fulfil the interest created. A suitable background for interesting and important but obscure pieces will also be necessary at times.

Exercises on each lesson should not only be given for the memorisation of facts, making summaries, helping the expression of ideas, and for the sake of parsing and analysis in Grammar but also for the following literary objectives :—

- (1) To create a taste for literature
- (2) To develop the power of comprehension and appreciation.
- (3) To arouse the spirit of investigation and independent study.
- (4) To train in the choice of right words and correct phraseology.

To encourage independent study in Vernacular Middle Schools a few short notes as footnotes will be helpful. These should give the meaning of foreign and unusual terms and important allusions.

Brief biographies of the authors and their characteristics of diction and style would help the students to understand the authors' works and to imitate their ways of expression. These may be printed in small type.

LESSONS.

The ratio of lessons in prose and poetry in each class should be about three to one.
